MIDD SECURES FOURTH PLACE AT DARTMOUTH

The Outing Club Makes Fine Showing at First Inter-Collegiate Meet.

By winning second place in the snowshoe cross country race at the Dartmouth winter carnival, Walker '19, gave Middlebury fourth place in the meet at which about a dozen colleges were represented. Walker's plucky fight in a race in which a Dartmouth and a Williams track man took first and third places respectively, is worthy of comment; his knowledge of snowshoes and sheer grit pulling him out of several tight places during the race.

The trip made by Hayward '20 and Cooley '20 on snowshoes across the mountains to Hanover, made a favorable impression there. The men made the trip between Tuesday night and Thursday night, entered several events at the carnival and Hayward returned Mondayfrom Bethel to Middlebury with the temperature never higher than 20 below zero. M. Ross placed in the final heat of the ski dash getting a second in one of the preliminary heats, and both Ross and Canfield made a good showing in the ski cross country.

Eight delegates were sent to the carnival and all have brought back valuable information from their experiences in the Dartmouth meet. The men report a wonderful time from start to finish of the carnival and all have warm praise for their entertainment at Dartmouth. Poor weather conditions on Friday made the going slow, and Walker was just edged out of third place in the snowshoe dash, partly because of the heavy snow.

The ski jumping events were the main feature for Saturday and the Middlebury men are enthusiastic in their reports of the jumping, and are anxious to make a good jump here. At present, members of the club are looking for a suitable hill.

At the meeting of the Outing Club last Thursday evening Hayward gave account of his trip across the mountains. Walker '19 and Wright '18 told of their experiences and impressions at Dartmouth and Professor Lawrence, who has been a member of the Dartmouth Outing Club, gave a short talk on the books and equipment which will be of use to the Club here.

The list of events for the inter-class ski and snowshoe meet which is being planned by the Club will be announced later. Considerable interest is also being shown in the plan for an Outing Club dance in March.

Civics Club.

A closed meeting of the Civics Club was held on February 6, at which the subject of "Women's Trade Unions" was discussed. The topic was presented by Gladys Frost and Goldie Courtemanche who presented the history of the Trade Unions, their work, and the various state laws concerning them.

MILITARY COMPANY FORMED AT MIDD

Regular Drill of Company and Squad Formation in Full Swing.

In view of the possibility of war being declared between the United States and Germany a meeting of the men in college was recently held to determine what action Middlebury should take in preparation for such a declaration. Professor McFarland, who presided over the meeting, discussed the various means of military training available to Middlebury students.

Dr. Thomas in addressing the gathering stated his own warm regard for the German people and his sincere hope that a war with them could be averted, but should war become inevitable, the men of Middlebury should be prepared to offer their services even though it meant, as in the civil war, the enlistment of practically the entire student body.

Allen '18, Harrison '17 and H. M. Davis '17 were appointed a committee of three to confer with Professor McFarland in regard to forming and drilling a company.

It was decided for the present to give the men elmentary drill in squad formations.

At a meeting of the Military Company Friday evening, February 16, Harrison '17, was elected Captain, and Allyn '18, First Lieutenant. It is planned to divide the company into three platoons; to have the different platoons drill on different days of the week, and to have company drill once a week. After a time sergeants and corporals will be appointed from among such men as prove themselves competent for these positions.

ALUMNI BANQUET HELD IN BOSTON

A Large Body of Alumni and Trustees Meet In Young's Hotel.

On the evening of February the tenth, songs and cheers filled Young's Hotel when about one hundred members of the Boston Alumni Association of Middlebury College made merry at their annual banquet.

The banquet was one of the most successful in the many years in which alumni from the old Vermont college have come together to renew the spirit of their Alma Mater. George H. Remele, '72, was toastmaster.

President Thomas was the leading speaker. He told many anecdotes of his experiences with the troops on the border last summer. He also spoke of the development of the college during the year and plans for its continued growth, He spoke on the new dormitory given by Mr. Hepburn.

Roy M. Pickard of Keene, N. H., a member of the class of 1905, urged members to take an inventory of the college to find just what its resources are in order to put them at the disposal of the government if the time should come. Other speakers were Professor A. D. Mead of Brown University and James L. Barton.

C. S. Reynolds, '12, was elected president; K. S. McLean '13, secretary; Orvis K. Collins '02, treasurer; Miss H. I. Cole '06, and Albert K. Parker '10, executive committee.

The committee in charge of the banquet was: Carl A. Perkins '07, Kendall S. McLean '13, Clinton S. Reynolds '12, Albert K. Parker '10, Miss Rena I. Bisbee '00, and Miss H. I. Cole '06.

Lincoln's Memorial.

On Monday afternoon, February 12, a large number of the faculty and students assembled in the old chapel in response to an invitation extended by the history department. Professor Lawrence read the book entitled "Lincoln as Known to His Neighbors". The fact that the story of Lincoln's life was told by an old man who had known him in his early years of struggle and had watched him rise by his own efforts until he became the head of the nation, gave a closer and more intimate view of the life of our hero than is usually gained from books.

Former Middlebury President Dead.

Word was received at Middlebury College on the 19th of the death of former President Rev. Calvin B. Hulbert, D. D., at Bowling Green, Ohio, last week. Doctor Hulbert was President of Middlebury from 1875 to 1880. He was a graduate of Dartmouth College in the class of 1853 and for two years was Principal of the Franklin County Grammar School at St. Albans. In 1859 he became pastor of the Congregational church at New Haven, and while there he was elected trustee of Middlebury.

BASKETBALL SEASON FAVORS JUNIORS

Contest Already Decided—Present Standing and Line-up.

The basketball season is progressing rapidly with the juniors in the lead, having won every game so far. The game played on February 7, between the seniors and juniors who were tied for first place at that time, showed convincingly that the juniors had by far the stronger team, and this game practically clinched the championship for them. Their team work is superior to that of any other team, and it is to this fact that their success must be attributed. The freshmen, however, are improving in their team work, as shown by their decisive victory over the seniors on February 14.

The game between the seniors and juniors on February 7 was very one-sided throughout. The seniors played loosely all the way through, so that the juniors with their much superior team work easily won, 21–10.

The game between the freshmen and sophomores on the same night was very close and exciting throughout and although the freshmen showed up better they had to work hard for their victory. The loss of Jenne contributed much to the defeat of the sophomores in the game.

The senior—freshman game of February 14 was also one-sided, as the freshmen had their own way throughout the game. They showed the best team work they have displayed this season and ought to give other opponents in remaining games a good run. The ball remained in the seniors territory the greater part of the time and when the seniors did get it near their opponents basket they seemed unable to score. Satterlee and Heath proved good shots from the floor while Courtney played his guarding game well.

The juniors again increased their lead by defeating the sophomores with the overwhelming score of 25-9. The victor's again showed their superiority in team play. During the first few minutes the sophomore five held their ground well but later seemed unable to play together. Myrick scored five times from the floor and held his own at center on the jump.

Moving Pictures.

Numerous elements in our modern civilization become beneficial or pernicious according as they are controlled by high or selfish motives. In the majority of cases, however, the determining factor is public opinion; and public opinion must be educated if these elements are to work for good rather than evil.

We may safely assert that neither the administration alone nor the student body alone is responsible for the atmosphere of the college community, but rather both. It is generally true that conditions which are not ideal continue to exist because no one cares to assume the responsibility of initiating a reform and run the risk of incurring the disfavor of the crowd. It remains, however, for the few to do this very thing, even as history shows. It is also true that that which is has the odds in its favor, and is sure to receive the support of those who are too indolent to think. For such, there are no problems beyond the mere necessities of the present moment. The old order is frequently not the most desirable.

A college education, presumably, is for the purpose of developing the faculties of the individual to the highest possible degree under the most favorable circumstances. If this be true, we should consider seriously whether our own college life satisfies these conditions. The community as well as the individual is, perhaps, best judged by what it is up to in its leisure hours. We turn the spot-light on ourselves and discover that the moving pictures occupy the greater part of our evenings' entertainment. We furthermore discover that the moving pictures as served up to the public in this community at the present time do not, apparently, fulfill the conditions necessary to a normal and healthy atmosphere, either for college students or any other group of people who are seeking to develop their intellectual and moral natures. A large share of reels exhibited are of no ultimate moral value, and by their very cheapness and misrepresentations of real life render callous the sensibilities and warp the moral perspective. A few even approach the distinctly immoral by overstepping the commonly recognized limits of propriety; the spectators swallow hard, look straight ahead, wonder what their neighbor is thinking, and brace themselves for the next. A continued course in this medicine requires heavier doses each time to produce an effect, and the question of what the bounds of propriety are is continually raised. This class of pictures is not very common, but enough so to produce decided ill effects. Occasionally, a first class reel is exhibited which is both a pleasure and a real moral tonic. It is this that we earnestly desire and for which we make our plea. Thus we have the two opposite possibilities.

Where does the blame lie? The movies are a strictly commercial proprosition and are not run for purposes of education and moral training, any claims to the contrary notwithstanding. It is the business of the management to satisfy the popular demand, and he does so to the best of his ability. The fault lies almost wholly with the community. The moving pictures furnish the only regular entertainment which the students can enjoy; therefore the college is in a large measure responsible for the present condition of affairs. The administration is at fault for not investigating the situation, if indeed it has not already done so, and it is its duty to initiate a more desirable and healthy grade of amusement. The student body is to blame for passively accepting any and all stuff presented to it. We do not desire in the least to run the moving pictures out of business. We believe that a strong and united public opinion expressing itself in a definite and determined manner can secure the desired results. We believe it is the duty of the faculty, and of every man in the student body who has a definite conviction in the matter to take a positive stand. We believe it is a growing sentiment in the student body that we are not provided with a grade of entertainment that is condusive to moral uplift. If this is not mere fiction or idle opinion on our part, those in authority should investigate. Middlebury demands a higher grade of moving pictures.

By The Way.

One of the finest talks many us have ever heard was given Sunday in the Mead Memorial Chapel by Miss Margaret Slattery. It was a talk which had a peculiar appeal to students and it made a profound impression upon all her hearers. There was no text, but running all through the lecture were these recuring phrases "Where will you be just ten little years from now? Whose place will you take?" To try to give a resume of this splendid sermon, to put down the ideas in a way different from that in which they were presented to us, seems too presuming, a sacrilege almost, and we will not attempt. There are however many lessons which this talk brought home to us. One could not help but wonder as one sat and listened to her inspiring words, what we are doing now, what habits we are forming now, right now every day, which will determine where our place will be in that "great procession marching on toward eternity". Why wait until the "ten little years" have gone before we search our lives and see if we are living for ourselves or for others? At first thought it seems to us that college life is primarily a very selfish sort of life anyhow. We are educating ourselves. We are making ourselves more cultured. We say we can't do anything now. We have to get our education first. Wait, until we are thru college and then we will begin to show what we can do, what we will do for others. All we can do now is to get the most out of it for ourselves of course it will benefit others later, but just now—oh, well ! we just don't have a chance to help other people.

Perhaps college life is a selfish life but it is just what we make it. Most of us will never again live in such intimate contact with such a large number of people. Surely, here there are countless opportunities every day for little kindnesses, thoughtful words. Unconsciously we affect many people by our very attitude. If we put aside our troubles and worries and have a cheery pleasant word for all, though we ourselves may never see the results, a great deal of good may be accomplished. We cannot go now to be missionaries, to do social service work, to do big things, definite things, the results of which will be apparent. We can, however, begin today to be less selfish, more thoughtful for others. Then when the "ten little years" have passed, wherever the future will find us, we shall have the consciousness that we have done our best. All the way along in the 'mighty procession of time.'

Our Responsibility.

At this time when the United States is facing a critical situation and when there seems to be a grave possibility that her citizens may be called into her service, each man is coming to realize his own responsibility to his nation, her principles and her institutions. When events are flowing along a smooth unimpeded course humanity too vaguely realizes its blessings on the one hand and duties on the other. When some crisis arises man must summon his mental faculties and with unwonted energy try to make good his thoughtlessness of the past.

Then now when our thoughts are turned towards the welfare of our country, when our loyalty is deepest and a keener sense of our responsibility is aroused, let us show our determination to be worthy citizens. How can we better prepare ourselves for effective action at this or other times than by training ourselves in our daily routine to feel our individual responsibility? our responsibility to ourselves, our friends and our college. All too often we allow ourselves to forget the importance of doing our best, unless enthusiastic over an athletic contest or a debate. What about the scholastic standing of our Alma Mater? Every failure of the individual concerns not himself alone but casts reflection on his preparatory school and pulls down the standard of the college. If the student is not zealous for his own good, how can he fail to recognize his duty to his parents? Again, he may be lowering the rank of a group or organization with which he is affiliated.

Nobody can live apart in this world and almost every deed has a far broader effect on society than a given person realizes at first thought. Then let us think a little harder about the course we are following; be a little truer to ourselves, our friends and our college, and when we have shown ourselves to be responsible and to be conscious of our obligations in every day affairs, will we not be better fitted for sharing the high and noble responsibilities of our nation.

Commencement Plans.

At the beginning of the new semester President Thomas announced a change in the Commencement schedule to go into effect this June. Class Day exercises, fraternity reunions, etc., will take place on Saturday, June 16, Baccalaureate sermon on Sunday, June 17, and the Commencement exercises on Monday, June 18. The Parker and Merrill prize speaking will come during the early part of May and not during the Commencement season as has been the custom up to this time. The change has been made with the hope that a larger number of alumni may be able to return for Commencement, since it is generally easier for teachers and business men to get away at the end rather than during the middle of the week. We most sincerely hope that our alumni—and alumnæ—will take advantage of this new arrangement. The Commencement program will be entirely a product of the seniors, there being no outside speakers. The honorary appointments were announced at the beginning of the semester as follows:

Webster E. Miller, valedictorian; C. Ridgely Lee, jr., Dan O. Mason, William H. Edmunds, Madalene K. Foster, salutatorian, Marie L. Champagne, Marguerite E. Heaphy, and Huldah M. Thomas. This announcement was made earlier than is customary in order that the speakers might have a longer period for preparation. Congratulations to those who have been honored!

Basket-Ball Champions Win M's.

At a basket ball rally held in Pearsons Hall on Friday, February 10, the members of the girls basket ball teams were awarded their letters and numerals. Miss Charlotte Marsh, president of the Women's Athletic Association, presided and made a speech giving some interesting statistics concerning the games. The champion junior team had an admirable record, winning every game. The girls who received their M's are Doris Kendall, captain, Margaret Chatfield, Helen Clift, Christine Webster, Marion Dean and Goldie Courtemanche. The meeting was adjourned after a cheer for the junior team.

"A Pair of Spectacles."

The Athletic association announces that in March the three act comedy, "A Pair of Spectacles" will be given for the benefit of the association. The cast, as picked from the students, consists of Reynolds, Lee, Mason, Ottman, Benedict, Howard Watson, Willard Taylor, Haugh, Misses Katherine Ball, Florence Millard, and Anna Clark. The committee in charge consists of Edmunds, chairman, Benedict, Mason, Montgomery and Gorham. Professor Burrage is coaching the cast.

Glee Club Trip.

The Glee Club is now on its trip into the southern part of the State. Because of the epidemic of scarlet fever in Rutland they were obliged to give up their Monday evening's program. Tuesday they appeared in Ludlow, this evening they are appearing in Springfield. Thursday they will entertain in Westminster, Friday in Bellows Falls, and Saturday in Fair Haven. The programs consist of club numbers, quartet numbers, double quartet numbers, solos, selections by the mandolin club, and entertaining by Dexter Mead. In many of the selections an orchestra accompanies the voices.

Informal discussions will follow all meetings. The conference is held under the auspices of the Wheaton College Y. W. C. A. and is under direct charge of the Social Committee. Ruth A. Hesselgrave has been chosen the Middlebury delegate.

Le Cercle Francais.

A meeting of the Cercle Francais was held Friday evening in Pearsons Social Hall. The evening passed very pleasantly with songs, games, and readings by Professor Robinson. Refreshments were served. The next meeting of the club will be held March 9. Miss Champagne, Miss Holmes and Mr. Wheelock were appointed as entertainment committee for that meeting.

At a meeting of the French Club on February twelfth the following officers were elected: president, Miss Richardson; vice-president, Miss Harris; secretary and treasurer, Miss Farrell.

The High Cost of Living.

A short time ago, when it was announced at the Commons that the price of board was going up fifty cents per week, there was a general groan of dissatisfaction on the part of the men taking their meals there. The incident related above is merely an example of what is taking place along all lines to-day. Everywhere we hear mentioned the "high cost of living", and it is growing higher every day. To live well and move in good society is getting to cost more. But there is another side to the question. There never was a time when it was worth so much to live as it is now. It costs us more to go to college than it did our grandfathers, but we have advantages and conveniences of which they never dreamed. We have greater opportunities in the election of studies, rooms with bath, and electric lights.

There never was a time when young men should grasp opportunity so firmly as now when it is so abundant. We are living in a highly civilized age. Progress and accomplishment have become almost a passion, and unless we keep apace, we are back numbers. The words of Whitman are especially appropriate today.

"We are living, we are dwelling,
In a grand and aweful time;
In an age on ages telling,
To be living is sublime."

Does the high cost of living bother you? Try and make your life worth it.

COLLEGE NOTES

The following have been chosen to take part in this year's junior play, "The Lady of Lyons": Anderson, Gorham, Mead, Wheelock, Reid, Lynch, Lyon, Everitt, Eastman, Whitney, Fullington, Harris, and Misses Montieth, Diehl, Kendall, Foote, and Elmer. Professor Burrage will act as coach.

Friday evening at a meeting of the Union, Dan Mason was elected president to fill out the unexpired term of Harold Hollister, who has retired from attendance in classes. Mr. Hollister is still a member of the senior class and will graduate with his class-mates in June. At present he is employed as Physical Director in the High school in South Glens Falls, N. Y.

Friday evening, the ninth, the following were initiated into the Delta Tau society: Aines, McSweeney, Heath, Davis, Downing, Kasper, Butler and Courtney. Three new members were pledged at that time, and on the sixteenth the following were initiated: Thomas, Law, Parker and Frank Hinchey.

Afraid of the Women.

The Phi Beta Kappa society is a college organization based exclusively upon scholarship. Only the students standing the highest are ever admitted, and the election usually occurs during the senior year, though sometimes a little earlier. The Triennial Council of the Phi Beta Kappa society which met last summer in Philadelphia received a report of one of its committees recommending that measures be taken to curtail the yearly admission of women, the rapid increase in the number of the fair sex being such as to alarm the male members of that ancient organization. Did it not occur to the men that a nobler way would be to excel the women in scholarship, if they could, rather than to confess defeat by drastic measures of exclusion? If the average college man would devote as much time and thought to books and study as to sports and pipe-dreams, he would have less need to fear being outdistanced by the women in the race for scholastic honors.
